Grisley Form Brought Forth and Republicans Are in Uproar.

NUMBER DOCUMENT

Will be Heavy Democratic Club in the Campaign-Contains Kitcin's Speech.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The Democratic Congressional Committee is overwhelmed with requests for copies of the speech made by Representative Claude Kitchin on President Roosevelt at the last session, and also for the one made by Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, attacking the record of the President. The two speeches have been combined in one document, known as No. 6. A half million copies have been printed by the committee and are being sent out. It was stated by Secretary Edwards to-day that this immense number would probably not meet the demand, and that another supply would probably have to be struck off.

off.

The Republicans are very bitter in their characterization of the wide circulation which the committee is giving the speeches. They denounce them as personal and may that the Democrats are flinging mud in using them.

What Grosvenor Said.

What Grosvenor Said.

The joke of the matter is that Mr. Kitchin devoted himself entirely to quoting from the published works of President Roosevelt. In which he defended lynching for horse stealing and denounced the characters of the greatest of our Presidents. The remainder of the speech is made up from the articles which General Grosvenor, one of the Republican leaders of the House, wrote to the New York Journal, while acting as the correspondent of that paper, at the Philadelphia Convention, which nominated McKinley and Roosevelt in 1999. Mr. Kitchin alluded to the fact that there was no man in the country so willing to attribute all the virtues to the President as General Grosvenor now is, and then proceeded to quote from Grosvenor's newspaper articles. Here is one of the letters to the Journal, which is quoted in the speech:

"There is something new under the sun. We have a brilliant, erratic, curious sort of a man, whose friends are trying to destroy him and d great herd of selfish politicians are trying to use him for their own selfish and shameful ends," and apparently not one of them, neither friend nor selfish person, seems to have the alightest care for his welfare. That man is Theodore Roosevelt, Governor, of New York.

"It is said that last night he shouted and screamed and danced if the meet-the slightest care for his welfare. That man is Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of New York.

"It is said that last night he shouted and screamed and anoed in the meeting of the New York delegation and said: If am saved! I am saved! Saved from whom? Saved from the men who said: If am saved! I am saved! Saved from whom? Saved from the men who injudiciously let their friends for him want to see him nominated? Is that it? Saved from the men who are fighting over him as a bone of contention—one for his defeat and another for his elevation, and neither one cares for him? Is that it? It is coolly and calmly admitted, and not denied when it is charged, by a certain great force in New York, and then in the New York delegation, that they are opposed to Roosevelt for Governor because the not think he is, the proper man for the place, and because he not suit them. Therefore, they are willing to push him off and dump him upon the presidential ticket, upon the sole and sordid interest of themselves; and their own schemes of politics. Hore he is.

"Suppose he should be nominated for Vice-President to-morrow. What will be said of him? That either he was a dishonest man or eise that he did not want the place, and in this last instance it would be said of him that he had no power of his own, no will, no voice; that he was simply taken possession of by the men who hated him, who were opposed to him, and forced into the position in order that they might get rid of him."

Makes Them Wince.

It may be easily imagined that the Republicans wince at the wide circulation of such matter, coming as it does from a wheel-horse of the party, but it was not expected that they would charge that it was of too offensively personal nature to be used in the campaign, General Grosvenor said what almost any Democrat said.

Coroner's Jury Finds That Roy Scales, Now Under Arrest, Is Responsible.

DANVILLE, VA., July 15.—Edward Mc-Kinney and Claude Talley, thirteen and fifteen years of age, respectively, were washed through a sewer, which extends under the track of the Southern Railway at Green Hill Cemetery, during the progress of the storm yesterday afternoon. The rain filled the ditch on the side of the street with water, which had become dammed farther up the street. The boys were wading in the ditch, when the dam broke, and being unable to withstand the rush of the flood, they were washed off their feet and into the sewer. Men who were on the street at the time saw the boys as they were being hurled into the sower by the mass of waters. It was confidntly expected that they would either drown in the passage or be thrown against the side of the culvert and killed.

These men hastened to the point where the culvert empties and waited for the bodies of the boys to reappear. One was unconscious when he floaded out from the mouth of the sewer. Both soon recovered entirely.

was unconscious when he floaded out from the mouth of the sewer. Both soon recovered entirely.

The result of the coroner's jury, summoned to inquire into the cause of the geath of James M. Armes, of the Southern Reiliway, who was shot in the long cut near the city several nights ago, from the effects of which wounds he died at the General Hospital on yesterday, was that the man came to his death from gunshot twounds fired by Roy Seals, the colored suspect, who has been in jail since the morning following the shooting, when he was arrested.

Mr. R. B. Abbott, night watchman of the Southern, who was with Mr. Armes when he was shot, positively identifies the negro as the man who fired the fatal shots. He says that he knows the negro well. Seals will be held for action of the grand jury.

CLEVELAND WILL SPEAK

Ouestion of Bryan's Appearance Causing Some Worry-Change of Sentiment in Washington.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The uctive work of the Democratic campaign will not begin until after the meeting of the National Committee, which will be medd in New York about the first of held in New York about the Hist of next month.

It is understood that President Rooseveit's latter of acceptance will be given out about the 25th of this month. Judge Parker's letter is not expected until eity in August. When the formal notification of each of the candidates shall have taken place, the campaign will be on in earnest.

Cleveland the Star Speaker.

Cleveland the Star Speaker.

Though success in New York will not necessarily mean victory for the Democratis, that State will be the battleground. The influence which it would exert upon other States, if the sentiment prior to election could be shown to be strongly Democratic, is clearly recognized. It is also true that work done in New York always has a decided effect upon the vote of Connecticut and New Jersey. The vote of the two States named in hearly always cast as is New York. The same political atmosphere seems to envelop all three.

Grover Cleveland will be the star speaker for the Democratis in New York State. He will make several speeches. The Democratis began early last week to plan for a big meeting in New York city to be addressed by Mr. Cleveland, and later it was decided that Mr. Bryan should be one of the speakers also if he would consent. But since that time Mr. Bryan has begun to fulminate against the platform and ticket in such a way as to wake it doubtful whether he would be of service to the party in the campaign. In his last statement he confined himself to pointing out the good things in the platform, and made it plain that if he chose he could make some fine speeches by simply discussing those alone, and allowing the things of which he did not approve to go unnoticed. It is said that Mr. Bryan still has remarkable influence in New York. Indiana and Illinie. If he would consent to go to work in earnest for the ticket in those three States he could accomplish a great deal for the ticket. It is hard to count on William Jennings Bryan.

Change of Sentiment.

Every unprejudiced observer in Washington is struck by the peculiar condition.

Change of Sentiment.

Every unprejudiced observer in Washington is struck by the peculiar condition of affairs which exists in this city now, and probably throughout the country. The great majorty of the Democrats believe that a winning ticket was nominated at St. Louis, and Republicans about as generally admit that the result of the election is involved in doubt. When ordereffects that six months ago, there was perhaps not a man in the United States who thought it possible that Mr. Roosevelt could be defeated, the change in sentiment appairs almost like a revolution. And the betting to-day, instead of being fifty to ten in favor of Roosevelt, is seven to ten in his favor. At that rate it would not surprise people if the odds were in favor of Parker before election day.

Committees.

The publication in yesterday's Times-Dispatch concerning the gossip going around the City Hail, alleging that states were in the air in the make up of the new Street Committee, caused a great deal of further talk on both sides of the proposition and prospective President R. Lee Peters, gave out the following glatement on the subject:

"I read from an article in to-day's issue of your paper in reference to certain slates made up for the Committee on Streets. I wish to say that I have not discussed the name of any member of the Council for any committee publicity or privately, or to any individual person, sor will I do so until the new Council clothes me with that authority by electing me their president, and then no committee will be made known until the new Council convenes for that purpose."

The article distinctively stated that no information had been gotten from Mr. Peters on the subject, and that he had persistently declined to discuss it.

NEGRO OUESTION IN

The solution of the negro question in its new form will be found some day, not in the lynching of negroes, not in the liberal and artificial measures taken by and given to the negroes by American politicians, but by the application of the principle which was proclaimed by Garrison afty years ago.

A few days ago I read an article mone of our best and most liberal magaines in which the writer, full of confidence in the justice of his claim, expresses the opinion that the recognizing of the principle of non-resistance to an evil is a strange and somewhat ridiculous error.

I also discussed the negro question with that unusually ralented and brilliant American, William Jennings Bryan. Also he tried to convince me in the most polite and suave manner that when I advocated non-resistance I was on a wrong path, and, of course, quoted to me the instance of the negro tramp who kills or assaults a child, which everybody seems to consider an irresistible argument for lynching.

to consider an irresistible argument for lynching.

I replied that even in that case I would advocate non-resistance, because I had never, during the seventy-five years of my life, seen this fantantic colored yagrant who murdered or assaulted a child, but I have seen millions of brigands who assault and murder children, women, old men and laboring men in the name of the law believing themselves justified because they themselves have suffered violence.

cause they themselves have suffered violence.

When I said this my amiable guest with his usual rapid comprehension, without letting me finish, recognized the soundness of my argument.

No one has been the hypothetical brigand, while the world which suffers from violence is always before your eyes, and still no one sees or wants to see that the struggle which is to deliver human kind from violence is not against the rail brigands who rob and assault the people.

Non-resistance only means that the natural condition under which a rational and intelligent being should live does not consist in violence, which is only pardonable in inferior beings who do not think but in moral persuasion. This is the great goal toward which we should all stive.

During the last century thirteen or courteen million people were killed in war,
